Quality Control

Quality is both intrinsic and extrinsic. Our products are subjected to rigorous internal testing at all stages of procurement and manufacturing. All of our products are subjected to many phases of in-house analysis. It starts with the acquisition of raw materials, trims, fabric, and so on, and continues through every stage of production, such as cutting, sewing, finishing, and packing, to ensure that the proper quality of product reaches the client.

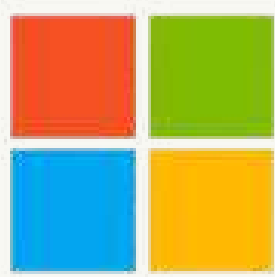

Each product is subjected to stringent quality control methods to guarantee that only the highest quality and design products reach the market.

Products that meet the quality standards at a particular stage of development proceed to the next level. As a result, we ensure that the possibility of breaches in the quality surveillance process is minimised.

Information Technology

Celestial strongly believes that use of the current and the latest information technology tools is the essence of growth of any business entity. Each person working at Celestial has access to the latest computer hardware and licensed software and IT tools. Celestial uses Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) software at various levels for supply chain management which helps a great deal in streamlining procurement, production planning, quality control, logistics, human resource management and financial planning. It seeks to increase the transaction speed by exchanging data in real-time, reduce inventory, and increased sales volume by fulfilling customer requirements more efficiently and effectively.
